After installing, you will see the Registry Cleaner window. The program will begin to scan the registry. If the cleaner finds out about the infected registry keys, the program will repair them automatically. If the problem is too complex to repair, you will see an alert window to indicate the problem. Once the problem is solved, you will get a report. The Registry Cleaner will repair your registry so it will be faster and more stable, which is a great help to fix registry errors. 100% CLEAN Certification Auslogics Registry Cleaner has received the following certification from McAfee: 100% virus-free.Move over, Harry Potter. Google is now recruiting kids and teens to work on a new initiative that hopes to teach young people how to code and boost their computer skills. The firm said today it will start to hire up to 1,000 people between the ages of 13 and 18 in 20 countries to work on the initiative, called Code.org. The group's aim is to change the way we view computing and use computers. The company claims that "90% of jobs in the future will require basic coding skills." But only 12% of children in the US have any programming experience. Google and its partners aim to tackle this by offering free online courses and game-like experiences that teach kids to program. They hope it will lead to higher-skilled work and better jobs. Google said on its blog that the company aims to raise awareness about coding and its benefits. "We know that today, millions of students start their careers without knowing how to program, while others struggle to find the time to make it a career," says a blog post on the company's website. "In the future, computing will be an integral part of our lives. So we hope that Code.org will change the way we view computers and computing by introducing children to the basics of programming and showing them that learning to code can lead to a better career." So what is coding? It is a technique that allows computers to be created. You can make a program using code – a line of instructions – which makes computers understand that there is a problem and how to fix it. Coding is a big part of the programming language Ruby on Rails, which is the software used by website such as Twitter and Last.fm to create online websites. The problem with the current system of teaching programming is that it is
