Category:Software companies of the United StatesQ: How to convert video footage into frames in Ubuntu? I'd like to convert a video into images using the frames method provided by imageMagick.

Is there a way to do this in Ubuntu (with or without OpenImageIO)? If not, is there some other method or library available to do this? A: In the terminal `ffmpeg -i input.mp4 -vf fps=fps=32 -r n/a -f image2 \ frame%d.png` Will result in 1 fps image on a 320*240 screen. Replace 32 with the number of images you want per second. Marketing Research What People are Saying... Jaffe & Davis is a great consultancy – I would recommend them to anyone looking for any kind of research.

In the excellent hands of the Jaffe & Davis team, we've developed expertise in public awareness and opinion research, which has provided superb insights to our marketing and reputation communications. You consistently get high quality and detail data from our teams, with a clear understanding of how this data should be interpreted in a quality way. J & D take their time in getting to know their clients, and then in crafting and interpreting their specific research needs and results. Nik is very personable, is known within our organisation, has great knowledge and experience, and also listens well to what you have to say. – See more at: An outstanding firm that I have been most impressed with in both quality of their research and the detail they provide. The team knows their stuff and their customer service is second to none. We would highly recommend Jaffe & Davis if you are looking for a firm you can trust to provide you with great information. –
