One of the first models of the Nokia N8 smartphone, which is expected to be released in the first quarter of 2013, will have a large amount of internal memory, much more RAM and support for UHD-format. This model will allow users whose physical carrier is the original N8 with a touch screen to remember how convenient some things made in Finland can be. The camera on the rear panel, which is also touch-sensitive, makes it possible to control pictures in 3D, automatic capture of different angles, auto focus and other useful functions. In addition, Nokia N9 will have replaceable high-capacity batteries. To enjoy 3D movies and UHD videos on the Nokia platform, the Nokia N9 is compatible with the new Nokia Local Search interface, which gives you 24/7 access to Nokia apps and services. The release of the Nokia 9 smartphone and Ultra HD TVs is expected next year.
