User interface The program comprises all configuration settings into a single panel, so the layout may seem a bit overwhelming at a first glance. There is no support for a help manual, so experimenting with the program's functions is your only option to find out more about its dedicated parameters. Main features AutoKeybot gives you the possibility to select the window where the text is sent or the clicks are performed, specify the text or keys that you want to send to the selected window, specify the number of repeating times, as well as enter your comments into a dedicated panel. You can create multiple tasks, view them listed in the main window, specify the start and end time, disable mouse movements, apply random mouse clicks, and enter the number of script loops. The tool enables you to add a custom delaying time between the mouse clicks, use hotkeys for a better control over the entire process, as well as reassign the hotkeys for adding, inserting, amending, 09e8f5149f

Has anyone else noticed that flash seems to crash so much lately? I don't know how many times I've watched a fullscreen youtube video and all of a sudden it crashes and locks the browser. And what I mean is that it doesnt load properly and is just stuck on displaying the network pages. Because of what everyone says about gaming battery life of laptops. I am getting frustrated and I know I'm not the only one. I'm taking the Sager laptop my friend gives me and I was just wondering, with the exception of the wireless, would I get the same battery life with the lowest specs possible (GPU GeForce 8500M GTS, CPU i7-2600, 8 GB RAM) as I would with the very top of the line configuration? It seems weird to me. I know that's where it all goes. Even the sound card. etc. @TheOnlyJoliet I would think it would be pretty close. I have a friend who plays on newegg/walmart/ebay with a HD 5850 and a Q6600 and he gets around 8-9 hours where I stay ~2 hours with my radeon 4870 on my sager. Though I'd check out the settings, the games you play may have more control over what is going on. If you're making slow FPS drops then you'll have a better idea what to do. What's New in the Auto Keybot?

Auto Keybot is a lightweight Windows application built specifically for helping you get rid of repetitive tasks by automating both keyboard events and mouse clicks. Product Reviews Software reviews from the community. Uploaded on Oct 04, 2006 12:01:37 PM UTC Written by'solveusee' I just installed it, everything is working fine. Kinda bugging that it won't create my own shortcuts for things though. ThanksAuthor's response: Thanks for your reply! You should try using the Create Shortcut feature of Auto Keybot, it is one of the main features that distinguishes it from similar software. I have tried it. Unfortunately the software would not add itself as a keyboard shortcut, however when I alt-tab to it or right-click the shortcut icon, it did work perfectly! I would have expected, however, that it added itself by default. I have tried it. Unfortunately the software would not add itself as a keyboard shortcut, however when I alt-tab to it or right-click the shortcut icon, it did work perfectly! I would have expected, however, that it added itself by default. Followed your instructions and there are no problems. Quick and simple. I like it! Author's response: Thank you for your feedback. Using a built-in application instead of one that you downloaded is one of the main focuses of Auto Keybot. When you start using such a tool, it is highly recommended to use the program developed by the company, instead of a generic solution. Good quick analysis, easy to use tool. Hopefully the shortcuts now work (hopefully both with win+key and with the separate program icon). Also, an "automate" checkbox would be useful, and the "description" box could be customizable. You know, I've been using Auto Keybot for a while now, and I really love it! It's simple, and easy to use. But, I have one problem. I was told by a friend that Auto Keybot was a bit a resource hog, because of all the background processes it was using. I'm not really worried about the windows background processes (which are the ones that actually listen for the mouse and keyboard events), and I'm fairly sure that the idle time doesn't cause any problems as well. But, I think that the time used by the process that creates the shortcuts shouldn't be a
