Its unique key feature is that it checks for plagiarism in your text without sharing your personal details with any third party. Plagiarism Finder is a reliable software that enables you to identify and match pieces of text from your documents with original online sources, in order to determine the level of plagiarism. The software can connect to multiple online searching engines in order to ensure a wide area of sources for plagiarism. Supporting multiple input sources Plagiarism Finder can match the input text, that you can paste from the clipboard, as well as import from a document or a URL. The supported file formats for text import include DOC, DOCX, PDF, RTF and TXT. When importing text from a PDF, you need to make sure that the copying privileges are not restricted. Whether you import text from a file, website or you paste it from clipboard, the software can display the full source in the dedicated area, so that you may view and read it. Searching and matching pieces of text The software features two modes of identifying and matching pieces of text from your document to online sources. It may separate your text into sentences and search the Internet for exact matches, or for more accuracy, it can select custom-length fragments. When choosing the second option, you need to also specify the fragment length, regarded as number of characters. Setting the searching parameters implies that you select the online services you wish to call upon. Google, Yahoo, Ask, Bing, Google Books and Google Scholar are the searching engines that Plagiarism Finder can connect to. You may select all, for a more accurate search, or tick only specific boxes. Additionally, you may mention sources that ought to
