Besides, that was the only product available in that day that was truly tool-free. Adrien: What's the number one issue with using tools for manufacturing? Jean: This is a big one. Think about it. The cost is insane, it's the start and stop hassle. You have to make sure it's working properly, and no one wants to do that. We don't even know how to stop it once we've started. And then there are the safety issues. Adrien: Safety issues? Jean: With the proper tools, we can spend less time looking for the right piece and less time trying to find things that got lost. What happens with a robot is that it spits out a piece
