Alteration of cytokine balance with use of tyrosine kinase inhibitors in vitro. We investigated the effects of tyrosine kinase inhibitors with tyrosine kinase and signaling inhibitory activity on cytokine production in peripheral blood mononuclear cells (PBMCs) stimulated with phytohemagglutinin (PHA). The phytohemagglutinin-induced production of interleukin-2 (IL-2), interleukin-8 (IL-8), and tumor necrosis factor alpha (TNF-alpha) was inhibited by genistein, tyrphostin AG-1296, and tyrphostin AG-205. The tyrosine kinase inhibitors inhibited PHA-induced IL-2 and IL-8 mRNA expression after 6 hours of stimulation, whereas TNF-alpha mRNA expression was inhibited only at 18 hours. Despite inhibition of cytokine mRNA expression, the protein concentrations of IL-2, IL-8, and TNF-alpha were still elevated after 24 hours. Interestingly, the inhibitory effect of tyrphostin AG-1296 on IL-8 production was lower than that observed with tyrosine kinase inhibitors, and the inhibitory effect of tyrphostin AG-205 on IL-2 production was stronger than that observed with tyrosine kinase inhibitors
