fixed: a document could be attached to a page during runtime, this can occur when a page on a web site has a gridview control, a document is loaded into the gridview control and then the url is kept open in the browser after the page has been loaded. added: gleamtech.behaviors.observablebehavior interface and derived behaviors like onchangedevent which works like thegleamtech.events.behavior.onchangedevent in that only the last event is saved and a new event will be saved if the property has changed during the application run time. added: gleamtech.behaviors.observablebehavior.ontextchangedevent which is just used for observing changes of the text content of the textbox. it was necessary to have a special behavior since there is no event for the textchange in asp.net core. added: gleamtech.behaviors.observablebehavior.loadtextpropertychangedevent which is just used for observing changes of the text property of a textbox. this is necessary because the previous default behavior was just observing the textchanged event which caused issues on asp.net core, the new default behavior just observes the textpropertychanged event. added: a convention on how to use overloads for providing properties of an object are supported with composite classes, for example: microsoft.aspnetcore.ihiddenfield is a composite class of idisposable and ivalueprovider. a propertygetvalueasgetvaluesetvalueassetvalue will be implemented for custom composite classes. added: a new method can be called when an observablebehavior changes the property of an object. in other words, theobservablebehavior only needs to register the propertychanged event and can call this method whenever the property changes. 5ec8ef588b
